“ I will miss seeing you at Krogers Clayton but I know Jesus welcomed you home. You had strong faith that one day you would see Imogene again and that day has come my friend. It was a pleasure working with you all those years at CMS R.I.P. I love you

“ My deepest sympathy to Mr. Smith's family. He worked at CMS with my late husband (not sure by what name the company went at the time he was there), and later they always talked with each other when we saw him at Kroger. He was highly liked and respected, and I soon could see why. Later, after my husband passed, he always asked if I was doing OK, and asked about a daughter who had also worked at CMS while he was there. He had a kind, caring, manner, and I was sad when I saw the news of his accident online on lex18. I knew he very much missed his wife, and knowing he would see her again was the only comforting part of this. May his family feel the comfort of our Heavenly Father. There is no separation, for he is with our Father, and our Father is with his family, so they are still together. My prayers had been for him, as I told him I would pray for him, and now they are with his family as they go through this. Jonnie Southworth
