“ Mamaw Mattie was such a a sweet, caring and humble lady. I was once married to her grandson Michael. I loved going to visit with her and papaw Clyde. She loved our babies so good. And we loved her. She will greatly be missed.

“ My most cherish memory of mamaw is when I was little I had to have ear surgery and when I woke up my ears would hurt really bad and I would cry out for Mamaw. Then nurses would take me to her and she would sit and rock me until the medicine took effect and my ear stopped hurting. She was the most humble and nurturing woman I ever met. I'll never forget all the love she gave me and so many others. She didn't care about who you were if you were hungry you could come to her house and eat. She was faithful to the Lord and I know that she's up there with my daughter Sarah right now and watching over us.
