“ I met Mildred through Clay City Homemakers. One cold wintery day when we were at the Extension Office for our luncheon meeting someone started teasing Mildred about her driving on the Mountain Parkway. You see earlier she had to drive her grandson to work at WalMart and then make it back to Clay City for the Homemaker meeting without being late. She was being teased about how fast she flew in that car when she had to. I expected her to say, I don't drive fast. Oh no, she just gave us a big smile and said, you gotta do what you gotta do; the grandson had to get to work on time.

That was the Mildred I knew. Quiet, yes. Respectfull, yes. But a woman who had a mind of her own and did what needed to be done. Our county has lost a beautiful woman who was respected by all. We were blessed just by knowing her.

People like her are rare, indeed. Always a joy to be in her presence. So kind, gracious, & loving. She met adversity with strength and dignity and lived a life worth emulating. Sherri, Debbie, you will be in our prayers.
