“ We had just completed laying Daddy's body to rest when my daughter got the call that you were at er July 20th. Tabatha told me and I knew this would be the only time to see & talk this side of Heaven. When we got there no one was supposed to be allowed in. I looked straight in that nurses eye and said " I just buried my Daddy, I am going to see Pam". She opened the door. I knew you were so sick and hurting. We had snap chatted a few times, asking prayer back & forth, you even sent prayer for us although you were hurting so bad. The girls left the room after we had a prayer. I put my hand on your shoulder and said I Love you, you told me the same. Then you said "my warm person" laid your hand on mine, holding tightly & I knew...I put my other hand over yours, you laid your cheek over our hands and I bent closer and prayed in my heart. You said "so Peaceful" as we breathed together as one & felt the hand if Father God. When two friends love through the years and miles, the connection remains for all eternity. Love you Sissy, Thank you for the visit, see you soon ❤️

“ The girl, the singer, the dancer, the sister, the friend; one summer day Winchester, The Kirby's lived there way back, City of Winchester put up a skating rink, it was made of wood had a tent like top and music. Pam, Edie and I went there every weekend we could. What a blast, later that year a new inside one was built beside Alex company. We also tried to see who would get the most looks from the boys 😊, we were all fairly shy so we didn't approach them. But Pam never had to say a word, she didn't have to, one look into her beautiful blues was all it took. What a skater she was, dancing on skates to songs like "Roller Coaster, Rocket Man alot of Elton music), Hooked on a feeling, Best of my love, Night Fever, Stayin Alive, Black Betty, Sweet Home Alabama, Bob Seger, and her personal fav Dancin Queen! Yes sir, she would not only skate circles, but dance while she did it, I usually hit the wall

“ Pizza memory; one thing I understood early, ya don't want to mess with Pam's pizza 😊

Once again I had stayed the weekend with Pam & family. Gene & Betty had 6 kids (Betty had lost a child before birth), looking back, it was the hand of God that feed that precious crew. Pam & I had stepped out to walk the blocks (not just block) of Airport road where they lived at that time. Betty & Gene had just come back from grocery & had purchased, I have no idea amount but a truck load of food, a bag or two of which contained pizzas. Many of you younger ones wouldn't believe me, but back then pizza was precious commodity. Betty had decided to get the kids a treat, although she was an awesome cook. While the pizzas (keep in mind how many kids, yeah there was a wait line as long as McDonald's, younger always first) anyway, now there was another mouth, mine, we decided to go out & see the happenings while we waited (one oven mind you). We had gotten caught up by friends so when we got back, Pam's pizza was already eaten, they were shared pizzas not one each like people get now days. Oh My Goodness, yep, hades broke thru that kitchen floor! MOM! Pam yelled Tommy ate my pizza!, fists flying, things flying, then calmly Betty walks in and says "I've got another one". As quickly as it started it ended and Pam determined she would sit & wait for this one 😊. And that was the end of that. Betty always had that "Calm" the type that was present in Pam from that day forward.

“ My precious friend, the memories we made and shared! I remember the day you turned 30, your hardest Birthday so you thought, we kept her busy and had to take her roller skating to prove she still had it and wasn't old lol! Trying to teach me to dance, (I have no rhythm) lol until old time Rock and roll played She just laugh, To waiting for the rapture the day they thought the world would end, because she longed to go to heaven! Sweet girl if I know one person dancing with the Angels it is you! Her unwavering love for the lord our Friday and Sat game nights and bible studies! Singing Edie's songs she wrote!

Pam Was one of a kind true to herself and the lord, if she loved you, you knew it!

You Made it my sweet Pam dancing on the streets of Gold! I know Jesus' said to you well done my good and Faithful Soldier your work on earth is done!

Until we meet again Thank you for always loving me!

Prayers to each of you, I know you will miss her laughter, her joy and her smile, I know you will miss your prayer warrior!

You each have some precious Angels

Love each of you always and Forever!

“ My dearest Friend/family , we have a Long history. She always beat me at things, she did it again, beat me to Heaven. We were both 9 months pregnant and it was a hot one, Momma Jo told us to jump in pool they had out back, she was eager to meet not one but two grandchildren, hoping we would both go into labor lol. So there we went huge bellies and Papa Gene hollering in back ground that we would sink to the bottom & drown! Betty Jo laughed her sweet laugh and said we looked like human bombers! The water sure felt good on our stretched big bellies, we swam for nearly an hour, no problems! Pam and I shared alot through the years but the most special bitter sweet one was yesterday when I finally got to see her again after many years. I love you my dear friend, see you soon. Prayers & Love to all y'all Kirbys
