Shannon Lynn Strange, 49, of Clay City, Kentucky, passed away surrounded by love and family. She was born on May 14, 1976, in Lexington, Kentucky, and grew up in Clay City, a place she always carried in her heart. “ My dearest precious sister, there aren't enough or the right kind of words to share about my love for you or the bond we shared. It was a special bond not many get to experience, but we were lucky. I wouldn't have picked anyone else to be my sister. Not in a million lifetimes. Through the hardest of days, our love for each other never waned. I'll always be your baby girl. Now I have the biggest and most beautiful band of guardians watching over me with you, Dean, Randy and Dale. Give them all my love, and wait for me. One day we'll all be together again. Until then, there are holes where all of you used to be, but this one is different and will always be the biggest. I love you to infinity, and beyond ❤️
